Amtrak rep says Illinois could lose about 2,000 jobs

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

If Amtrak is cut from the 1986 federal budget as President Reagan has suggested, Illinois will lose more than 2,000 jobs, seven of them in Carbondale, according to an Amtrak representative.

"Maybe it's hard to envision," Debbie Marciniak said, "but service would be discontinued in every city, including Carbondale."

Illinois was described earlier this week by an aide of Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Illinois, as "probably the single biggest Amtrak state outside of the Northeast corridor."

Marciniak said Thursday that Amtrak employed 2,065 people last year in Illinois, with a total income of $47.5 million.

Amtrak spent about $36.3 million for supplies in Illinois in 1984, she said.

Marciniak said she can't determine exactly how much money Amtrak invested in Illinois last year, because the rail service doesn't invest on a state-by-state basis.

"When Amtrak invests money, it doesn't say this is just for Illinois," she said. "It's for everyone who rides the trains."

Seven people are employed at the Carbondale Amtrak station, five of them full time, she said.

The number of passengers who boarded and deboarded in Carbondale in 1984 was 62,117, up from 60,183 in 1983. Marciniak said that a total of 148,826 people traveled with Amtrak between Carbondale and Chicago in 1984.

Marciniak said Amtrak employees are protected by a labor policy that was written into the statute which created

Board considers tuition increase

By David Liss
Staff Writer

It is probable that SIU-C students will pay 5.66 percent more for tuition next fall, according to a tuition increase proposal presented to the Board of Trustees at its meeting Thursday.

The board will take no action on the proposal until its next meeting March 8.

The proposed increase stems from an Illinois Board of Higher Education recommendation calling for a general 5 percent tuition increase for public universities.

However, SIU-C will need an additional .66 percent to match the recommended budget allocated to it by the IBHE, said SIU Chancellor Kenneth Shaw.

Without the increase the SIU system would lose $1.5 million in funding, Shaw said, which would put it "at a competitive disadvantage with other in-

Trustee says study impractical

By David Liss
Staff Writer

Another five-year evaluation of SIU Chancellor Kenneth Shaw and of the SIU system's structure would not be worth the time and effort the chairman of the ad-hoc evaluation committee said at the SIU Board of Trustees meeting Thursday.

The board should instead place more emphasis on its regular "confidential annual review of the chancellor," said Ivan Elliot, committee stitutions."

Also, not implementing the increase would "in effect be saying loudly and clearly to the public 'we do not need the money,'" he said. "We need the money."

The board heard opposition to the proposed increase from Undergraduate Student chairman.

"The benefits of a five-year review on the performance of the chancellor do not seem to justify the effort," he said, when "the goals of evaluation can be met through annual reviews."

The evaluation of Shaw and the chancellor system began last fall and was completed in December. The evaluation committee report praised the $1 million per year chancellor system used at SIU since 1979.

The report did not touch on Shaw's personal performance, which was discussed by the board in closed session, but it did address concerns about low faculty salaries and the cost of the chancellor and the central structure.

The report states "the committee believes that the present structure of the system provides the best opportunity for ultimate salary improvement."

Organization members, including President Andy Leighton.

"We are pleased with the IBHE budget as compared to past budgets," he said, "but we don't support a tuition increase." He said an increase would limit access to SIU, especially for "borderline" students who are "barely scraping by now."

Leighton invited the board to come to SIU-C sometime before its March 8 meeting to hold an open hearing to discuss tuition increases and higher education in general, but no plans have been made.

With the proposed increase, tuition for full-time in-state SIU-C students would go up $54 a semester, from $954 to $1,008. Tuition would increase by $60 a year for students in the SIU Law School, from $1,128 to $1,188. Students at the SIU School of Medicine would pay $198 more, going from $3,963 a year to $4,161.

In other business, the board decided not to cut five foreign language degrees at SIU-C for at least three years.

In a report last March the IBHE recommended dropping two bachelor's degrees in Russian and master's degrees in French, Spanish and German after a 1982-83 review showed SIU-C's enrollments to be the lowest of any such programs in the state.

"There are insufficient numbers of students in each of the programs to justify resources necessary to support strong curricula," the report said.

Student loans may drop 30 percent

By Karen Wiltberger
Staff Writer

About 30 percent of college students will be cut from the Illinois Guaranteed Loan Program by October 1986, if President Reagan's proposed financial aid cuts are passed by Congress without change, said Robert Clement, director of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

Clement said roughly a third of Illinois students who receive IGLP loans have families with annual incomes of more than $30,000. Under Reagan's proposal, students would be denied the federal subsidized Guaranteed Student Loans if their families earn more than $32,500 annually.

Although his estimate is not yet backed by statistics, Clement said, the ISSC is working on a report about projected financial aid cuts in Illinois due to the proposed federal budget cuts and how they would impact the state's college students.

The IGLP is the largest financial aid program in Illinois and is "by far the largest" of the state's three student loan programs funded by the federal government, Clement said. Other loan programs are Parents Loans for Undergraduate Students and Auxiliary Loans to Assist Students.

During the 1983-84 school year, nearly 174,600 college students received a total of more than $416 million in loans from the loan programs, Clement said. Individual figures for each loan program were not available.

He said students denied a IGLP under Reagan's cuts might be able to "fall back" on the other two loan programs, which are less expensive to the federal government.

Clement said the current IGLP interest rate is 8 percent and goes into effect when students begin to pay off the loans six months after graduation. The other two loan programs, however, have a 12

Officials blame arsonists for a Philippine hotel fire

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The general in charge of police blamed arsonists Thursday for a fire that gutted one of the city's largest luxury hotels, killing at least 24 people. Flames still shot from the 11-story Regent of Manila's top floors 48 hours after the blaze began. Among the identified dead were five Americans, three Britons, a Canadian and an Australian.

Israeli troops level four Lebanese buildings

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli soldiers rolled into a southern Lebanon village Thursday, pushed French U.N. peacekeeping troops aside and bulldozed four buildings they claimed were guerrilla weapons storehouses, U.N. officials reported. Shiite guerrillas make frequent raids on Israeli forces in the area. The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv reported that elsewhere in southern Lebanon, Israelis killed 11 guerrillas and captured nine in one encounter.

Committee says low inflation rate may not last

WASHINGTON (AP) — The country would be wrong to declare 4 percent annual price increases a victory against inflation since America's luck in reducing double-digit inflation could soon turn sour, a group of former government officials warned Thursday. Herbert Stein and Henry Fowler, co-chairmen of the Committee to Fight Inflation, said the Reagan administration was premature in boasting that inflation has been subdued.

Kidnapped American journalist found in Syria

WASHINGTON (AP) — American journalist Jeremy Levin, kidnapped 11 months ago in Beirut, escaped or was freed Thursday in apparent good health and was being cared for in Damascus, Syria. The circumstances of his return to freedom were not clear. Levin was quoted as saying he fled from his captors and walked for two hours; the Syrian government said it had won his release through negotiations.

Two instructors at Temple University shot

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — A gunman shot two Temple Junior College instructors Thursday and held one of them hostage after barricading himself in the school's fine arts building, officials said. The assailant, described only as a 28-year-old man, barricaded himself in an office about 3 p.m., police said. He talked with authorities, but broke off communications at 3:25 p.m., Klempa said.

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The man charged with murdering a priest and two other men in a Roman Catholic church after objecting to girls giving Bible readings was ordered Thursday to undergo psychological tests to determine whether he is competent to stand trial. Circuit Judge Feter Pappas ordered Bryan Stanley sent to a mental health center for 15 days of evaluation. Stanley, 29, has been charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of the a priest, a custodian and a lay minister, in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church in Onalaska last week.

Teens had 13.6 percent of babies in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Teen-agers gave birth to 13.6 percent of all babies born in Illinois in 1983, a slight decline from the previous year, state officials said Thursday. In 1983, women under age 20 gave birth to 24,348 infants, with 516 born to girls ages 10 through 14, said Thomas Kirkpatrick, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health. In 1982, teen-agers gave birth to 25,566 infants, or 13.9 percent of all babies born in Illinois that year, said Linda Miller, spokeswoman for the state program Parents Too Soon.

Michel says he'll ignore candidates' opinions

PEORIA (AP) — House Republican Leader Robert Michel, who recommends Illinoisans for top federal jobs, says he's ignoring a GOP platform plank that calls for judicial candidates to pledge their opposition to abortion. The Peoria lawmaker says he has "no intention" of asking candidates for the federal bench to pass a so-called pro-life litmus test before they can be recommended for a judgeship.

Governor proposes $300 million school aid

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Governor Thompson says he will propose a $300 million plan to improve the state's public schools with funds from a higher state cigarette tax and expected growth in state revenues. In an interview published in the Chicago Tribune, Thompson also said he hopes the state will be paying half of public education costs within the next three years. The state now pays about 39 percent of education costs.

Familiar city issues confront voters

By Bob Tita
Staff Writer

Downtown redevelopment, the railroad relocation project and the condition of rental housing are familiar issues that Carbondale voters may consider when they cast their ballots for four city council candidates in the Feb. 26 city primary.

The City Council's decision to end the city's relationship with convention center developer Stan Hoyer has left the project without a developer. Hoyer had requested that the city guarantee about $14 million in bonds for the project.

Purchasing the land for the redevelopment project is still a major stumbling block. Although the city has made progress in the past year in acquiring the property, several parcels of land have yet to be bought.

The cost of the Carbondale

Election '85

Railroad Relocation Project has been reduced by several million dollars. Last spring the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad decided not to locate a trailer unloading facility in Carbondale. This eliminated the need for U.S. Route 51 overpasses.

Railroad Relocation Director Eldon Gosnell expects final design plans for the track depression to be completed by the end of the year. Alternative designs, which include using fewer concrete retaining walls and restructuring the drainage system, have shaved $15 million off the price of the track depression.

Gosnell said he hopes bids can be solicited by this summer for the $25 million walkway over the ICG tracks and Highway 51 South, near the SIU-C Physical Plant.

The city's code compliance certificate program got underway last year. The certificate program was suggested by a citizens advisory committee on rental housing. It proposed that the city inspect the rental units every two years. The council also voted late last year to require smoke detectors in all dwellings in the city.

City officials predict that finding money for social programs will be difficult since federal funds will no longer be available. The council recently voted to maintain the same level of funding as last year for outside social service agencies. The Community Development Department recommended that funding be reduced for the agencies.

The council also reaffirmed the city's commitment to the Eurma C. Hayes Center.

Council members continue to grapple with the underage drinking problem in Carbondale. Proposals for combating the problem are before the council. Members of the Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board have recommended that the sale of beer in containers larger than 12 ounces be prohibited in bars with frequent underage drinking violations.

Police Chief Ed Hogan originally requested that the city adopt an ordinance requiring patrons of liquor establishments to be 21 years old.

Some of the candidates for the two council seats up for election have advocated changing the city council to an aldermanic system with wards. The present system of at-large council members has been criticized for not truly representing all segments of the population.

Conservatives accept women rabbis

NEW YORK (AP) — Conservative Judaism on Thursday formally announced its decision to accept women rabbis, triggering threats by opponents to disregard marriages, divorces or religious conversions performed by women.

"There are going to be two kinds of Conservative rabbis," said Rabbi David Novak, head of the Union of Traditional Conservative Judaism, which opposed the move. "Some will accept women rabbis, some will not."

The Rabbinical Assembly, the Conservative movement's ruling body, Wednesday voted 636 to 267 in favor of an amendment that gives automatic standing to any ordained graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary.

The Manhattan seminary started admitting women into its rabbinical program last year. One of them — Amy Eilberg, 30, of Bloomington, Ind. — will graduate in May, and be the first woman to don a Conservative rabbi's robes.

Eilberg said she felt "very excited and very happy and very proud" when she learned of the assembly's decision.

"As of today, Jewish women need never again feel that their gender is a barrier to their full participation in Jewish life," she said.

The decision came after years of heated debate. The Reform and Reconstructionist branches of Judaism started ordaining women as rabbis more than 10 years ago, and now have more than 80 women in that role.

Conservative Judaism, which claims 1.5 million members in North America, believes that Jewish law should be constantly reinterpreted by its rabbis — a middle road between Orthodoxy, which has a more static view of the law, and Reform, which uses the law as a guide.

Opponents of the ordination of women have argued that scriptures rule out such a move, noting restrictions on women's roles as witnesses and elsewhere.

But Gerson D. Cohen, seminary chancellor, said the decision reflects both religious considerations and Judaism's continuing adaptation to changing times.

"We have therefore not (just) survived. We have developed," he said.

Hostile Vietnamese skating on thin ice

BIG TROUBLE SEEMS TO BE BREWING in Southeast Asia. For several months, Soviet supplied Vietnamese troops have been engaged in an offensive aimed at driving out, once and for all, Cambodia's pesky rebels. Vietnam has occupied Cambodia since 1971, and in that time has tried repeatedly to wipe out what resistance has remained.

So zealous has Vietnam been in its efforts to solidify control that in 1979, China finally ran out of patience with its southern neighbor. Only the most serious of threats from Vietnam's sponsor, the Soviet Union, prevented China from squashing the Hanoi government. Vietnam got away with one.

But now that Vietnam has refused to tone down its attacks against Khmer Rouge rebels — the attacks in fact have intensified — China is once again losing its patience with the obstreperous Vietnamese. It is fortunate for the Vietnamese that the Russian Bear is standing watch. The Chinese want no part of the Russian army, but by the same token, the Russians are less than willing to tangle with the Chinese; and over Vietnam, of all things.

OMINOUS REPORTS OF CROSS-BORDER SHELLING and troop skirmishes between Chinese and Vietnamese troops have been trickling to the West.

The signal is clear: Vietnam, lay off.

It had been speculated by sources close to the action that China would probably refrain from direct intervention if only Vietnam would stop short of the Thai border. Mindful of pushing the Chinese too far, Vietnam has indeed been unwilling to press its attacks into Thailand.

But with the dry season offensive escalating, Vietnam may have pushed China over the edge. Vietnam may have 300,000 more troops than the Chinese stationed along its common border, but there is no question that Vietnam is in the vulnerable position.

It is often said that politics make strange bedfellows, but when the West finds itself rooting for the Khmer Rouge to halt Vietnamese expansionism, times are truly out of whack. As absurd as the idea of supporting the genocidal group sounds, the Khmer Rouge is preventing Vietnam from gaining its objectives.

AMERICA'S PRESENCE IN VIETNAM in the 1960s aside, the U.S. has a legitimate beef against the communist government. Using American MIA's (missing in action) as a tool of extortion and psychological warfare, Hanoi continues to torment the United States.

Should the traditional belligerence of the Vietnamese government lead to its own destruction, it won't receive any sympathy from the United States. On the other hand, should Vietnam be forced from Cambodia, the likely successor to power would probably be even worse — the murderous and loathesome Khmer Rouge.

Parking problem a rip off

What could Marilyn Hogan have been thinking when she said SIU-C has no parking problem? Maybe she can't see the cars for the yellow lines, but I'd bet that she can always find a blue space when she needs one.

OK, so maybe I am too lazy to park my car at the Arena lot, when my class is in the Communications Building. It's just that I can't seem to make it to my classes on time when it's a 20 minute walk away. In addition to the healthy exercise, I get the distinct pleasure of walking by 10 or 20 empty blue spaces on my way to class.

I believe parking should be on a first-come, first-serve basis for everyone. Or is it that the faculty is too lazy to walk? By ridding ourselves of those nasty blue stickers, parking available to me, Joe Student, would be increased by over 30 percent!

As it currently stands, there are 1,396 blue spaces on campus and 3,108 blue blue decals — a slightly better ratio than we students have.

I think that Ms. Hogan needs a taste of the red sticker parking roulette that goes on everyday. She would surely be singing a different tune.

Oh, and by the way, why don't you put some of that $20,000 in profits Parking Division accumulated last year to good use and clear the parking lots of snow? You did say that was one of your responsibilities, didn't you? — Armando Pellerano, junior, University Studies.

THIS IS HERBIE. HE IS BEING EDUCATED IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS DURING THE REAGAN PERIOD. HERBIE LIKES SCHOOL. EVERY MORNING, DURING HIS MOMENT OF SILENCE, HERBIE SAYS A PRAYER TO HIMSELF WHICH HE HAS WRITTEN BELOW:

Reagan budget tells middle class: 'It's time for you to bite the bullet'

THE LADY has been asked by the president to bite the bullet, but she's found the taste not to her liking.

"Did you see what they're going to do to student loans in the budget?" she said, in a semi-hysterical tone.

Sure. A lot of middle-class families with college-bound kids will be zapped.

"Well, what can be done about it?" she demanded. "My children can't go to college without student loans. We're counting on the loans. This is terrible."

I suggested that she call her congressman to protest. Or the White House.

"You know that won't do any good," she said. "Can't you write something?"

Why should I? "Because it's unfair. We're not rich. We're just middle-class. We're hardworking. We're..."

I INTERRUPTED to ask: You voted for him didn't you?

"Yes. Twice. But I didn't know he was going to do 'this'."

Well you've come to the wrong person for sympathy. My kids are done with school. So why should I pay taxes to float loans for your kids?"

She called me a heartless, selfish bastard, as well as a few other goodies, and slammed down the phone.

Actually I didn't mean to sound selfish and heartless. The truth is, I'd be glad to see my tax dollars used for student loans to her kids. Better that than another $7,000 coffee pot, a $5,000 hammer or a $600 toilet seat for the Pentagon.

But I was just trying to demonstrate for her one of the realities of Reaganomics. At the heart of this economic system is the sentiment:

Mike Royko

Tribune Company

"Don't tell me your troubles, buddy, it's every man for himself."

And I'm sure that with the unveiling of President Reagan's hard-eyed budget, millions of middle-class people are in the same position as that woman. Farmers who are losing their land. Parents facing big tuition bills. Small businessmen. Many veterans and elderly. The list could go on and on.

MANY OF them cheered when Reagan the candidate talked about cutting federal spending. They jeered when the Democrats talked about having a heart.

Now they're saying to Reagan: "Hey I didn't know you were talking about me biting the bullet."

Well, who did they think the man was talking about? The poor — those legendary idlers of America? Ah, but he's already bled that turnip patch. There's not much left there, unless he goes after the contents of the bag ladies bags.

The big, old cities, with their hordes of Democratic voters? They've been belted around since the day he took office. A city like Chicago would have a much better chance at getting a few dollars from this administration if it was somewhere in Latin America. And the cities are taking another beating in his latest ledger misery.

Did the tuition tormented lady — as well as the farmers and all the others who took joy in Reagan's talk of whipping the spenders into line — think the users of food stamps and the eaters of hot school lunches could bite that bullet of sacrifice all by themselves?

DID THEY THINK that the formula for keeping the Pentagon fat and happy, while not raising prices, was simply to give another kick to the down-and-outers?

No. It's reality time. And the reality — if you look at the proposed budget — is that it's now the middle-class' turn.

Sure he didn't tell you before the election that you'd have to sink your chops in that bullet. But why do you think he's such a great communicator? One of the tricks to being a great communicator is knowing when not to communicate.

So I don't know what to tell that lady who won't be able to get loans for her kids' educations.

She might try asking Ed Meese for advice. He's an expert at getting low-interest and no-interest loans from political pals.

Or she might consider telling her kids to skip college for a while and to join the Air Force.

That's one place there's never going to be a shortage of bucks.

What the heck, lady, the food isn't bad, medical care and housing are free, and where else would they ever get a chance to sit on a $600 toilet seat?

Complex equipment repair helped by a little philosophy

By Jeff Curl
Staff Writer

From stereos to cars to computers, Chester Heitsch has been fixing anything he could get his hands on since he was in the eighth grade. However, one should be warned before asking Heitsch what he fixes these days that they may not understand his answer.

Heitsch repairs scientific equipment for the University, especially for the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry. Although his major duty is to fix microscopes and other classroom equipment, Heitsch also fixes some of the specialized research equipment owned by SIU-C, such as spectrophotometers, amino acid analyzers and high performance liquid chromatographs.

A person who fixes such a wide variety of equipment needs a broad background. And Chester Heitsch has one.

Heitsch started his college education by working toward a degree in philosophy. But during the later years of his studies, Heitsch realized that philosophers "don't make much money." That's when he decided to mix his love for logic with his desire for tinkering with equipment. Heitsch chose to fulfill his electives requirement with courses in the School of Technical Career's electronics technology program.

"I was the first person to get STC credits accepted as electives by the School of Liberal Arts," Heitsch said, adding that philosophy is useful, but "electronics is what keeps me fed."

While Heitsch's repair skills might keep science students and professors pleased, there is another aspect of his job that keeps administrators smiling. He saves the University money, sometimes lots of it.

Repairing specialized equipment can be expensive for the University, Heitsch said. Most companies charge for repair work by the hour, some starting from the time their repairs leave the office and ending when they return.

"See that?" asked Heitsch, pointing to a large, tube-shaped device with its internal wires spread across a work bench. "The only part that needed fixed was a light bulb that costs about 23 cents. If a repairman had to come look at it, it would have cost around $1,000."

Heitsch said he likes his job because it deals with logic, sophistication and people. Professors often seek his advice when choosing new equipment and, when a new piece of research equipment is installed, Heitsch is present to learn its basic workings.

Thermodynamics, plastics, optics and temperatures are but a few aspects of science Heitsch deals with in his work. In addition, Heitsch has taken advantage of the eight free credit hours available to civil service workers each semester to strengthen his background in math, physics and chemistry.

Indian artifacts, glass works to be exhibited

The University Museum will display exhibits of Indian artifacts, blown-glass and cast-glass works and photographs of Civilian Conservation Corps forest projects through February and March.

Glass creations by Jon Wolfe, who created his work at the Creative Glass Center of America at Wheaton Village in Millville, N.J., can be seen through March 6.

Wolfe's creations have been on exhibition throughout the United States. He will be a visiting artist at the SIU-C School of Art March 4-8.

An exhibition titled

"Children of the Raven: Northwest Coast Indian Art" will open Sunday and will continue through April 21.

This collection features artifacts from the Pacific coast of British Columbia. The artifacts were collected in the early 1960s by Philip J.C. Dark, professor emeritus of anthropology at SIU-C.

The third exhibit, "The Civilian Conservation Corps in Southern Illinois," will feature photographs of forest projects undertaken by the Corps during the depression era.

The photographs, which are on loan from the archives of the U.S. Forest Service, include pictures of reforestation, erosion control and firefighting. They will be on display throughout March.

University Museum hours are 9 a.m.-3 p.m. weekdays and 1:30-4:30 p.m. on Sundays. The museum, located in Faner Hall, C-Wing, is free to the public.

Dance show planned

Faculty members and students from SIU-C and SIU-E will perform in the annual faculty dance concert at 8 p.m. Saturday at Shryock Auditorium.

"Dance '85" will feature seven dance numbers choreographed by faculty members from both campuses.

Linda Kostalik and Evelyn

Mojica, faculty members of SIU-C's physical education department, have each created two dance numbers for the concert.

Audrey M. Tallant, J. Calvin Jarrel and Kerry Shaul are choreographers from SIU-E.

Tickets are $3, $4.50 and $5 and are available at the Student Center ticket office.

FRED'S

Well last week's ad was a total screw-up again. On Thursday we advertised the wrong band, and Friday, the right band with the wrong fiddler. Despite the screw-ups, 742 people showed up. We only have to wonder how many we would've had if the right ad was run. But where would we have put them anyway? Some other interesting statistics for you to ponder:

Total number of aluminum cans recycled from Sat. night - 1153

Total number of returnable bottles - 127

Total number of disposable bottles - 622

11 kegs entered the building, 110 people rode the bull, my gosh we had some party!

Homosexual life portrayal seen in award-winning play

By Belinda Edmondson
Staff Writer

Come Monday, Shryock Auditorium will host the highly acclaimed — and highly controversial — Broadway play, "Torch Song Trilogy," the winner of the 1983 Tony Award for best play.

The three and a half-hour production, a condensation of three separate but related one-act plays, centers around a female personator with traditional desires: he wants a good job, a decent home, a mate and children. However, according to P.J. Benjamin, who plays the homosexual lead character Arnold Beckoff, the play does not attempt to "proselytize" about homosexuality.

"The play shows both aspects of the gay world (promiscuity and also the desire to have a permanent, monogamous, so-called 'middle class' love relationship and even to adopt a child)," Benjamin told "Houston Post" theater critic William Albright.

Despite the play's multifaceted portrayal of homosexual life, it has still been the object of criticism. When it opened in Dallas last September it was picketed by a fundamentalist Christian group, which objected to the play's matter-of-fact acceptance of homosexual life.

The first act, "International Stud," has also been criticized for its sexual suggestiveness; the act is set in the backroom of a homosexual bar, where anonymous sex is available. The controversy of the subject matter has thus necessitated the "mature audiences only" recommendation.

Thirty-year-old playwright Harvey Fierstein, better known as the author of the book for the Broadway smash "La Cage Aux Folles," drew on aspects of his own life when he wrote "Trilogy." Fierstein had worked previously as a female impersonator.

The three original plays opened on off-off Broadway in 1976, then were condensed into a four and a half-hour play for off-Broadway in 1981. After it won an Obie Award it was trimmed down to its current length and sent off to Broadway, starring the playwright himself, where it has been enjoying packed audiences for three years now.

The play is currently on a nine-month, 100-city tour; it has already set records in Los Angeles, where it brought in $3.5 million in the first six months alone.

"Trilogy" traces Arnold's emotional development over a period of seven years. In the first play, "International Stud," 25-year-old Arnold is searching for a permanent lover when he meets Ed, a bisexual schoolteacher ten years older than he. They become lovers, but when Ed decides to marry his girlfriend, Arnold turns to a handsome male model for comfort.

In the second play, "The Fugue in a Nursery," Arnold and his new lover spend a weekend with Ed and his wife, an uncomfortable situation which turns into a catastrophe. In the last play, "Widows and Children," Arnold, alone again, is attempting to adopt a sixteen-year-old homosexual street kid.

"Torch Song Trilogy" will be playing at Shryock Auditorium on Monday, February 18, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $13.50, $12, and $11. Advance mail and Visa/Mastercard phone orders are now being accepted from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. For more information, call the Shryock Auditorium box office at 453-3378.

Vietnamese attack rebel bases

KHAO SARAPEE, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese troops and armor sweeping through the jungle behind a ferocious artillery barrage overran one Khmer Rouge stronghold Thursday and seized part of another in the western Cambodia mountains, Thai military officers reported. The Thai border commander predicted the entire guerrilla complex would fall by Friday. A knowledgeable Soviet bloc diplomat said it may be the

"turning point of the war" that broke out after Vietnam invaded Cambodia and ousted Pol Pot's Khmer Rouge regime in January 1979. With guerrilla forward defense lines shattered by three days of withering artillery fire, 13,000 Vietnamese troops surged from the south and east in a pincer movement that overwhelmed the Khao Din stronghold and captured half the guerrilla headquarters at Phnom Malai, said

Colonel Chettha Thannajaro, deputy commander of the Eastern (border) Field Force. The commander said Vietnamese troops were within two miles of Phum Thmei, the communist Khmer Rouge showcase camp and reported operations center that Phnom Malai protected. Major General Salya Sripheh said it could be over by Friday for the Khmer Rouge in the steaming, malarial enclave that juts like a tooth into Thailand.

percent interest rate and students must begin to pay off the loans only 60 days after they receive the loan check, he said.

Although federal cuts would mean fewer dollars in loans for Illinois students, Clement said students should apply for student loans this year like they did last year. "This year is O.K.," he said, adding that the cuts, if passed, wouldn't be implemented until federal Fiscal Year '87, which begins Oct. 1, 1986.

In a recent survey, the ISSC asked the 1,300 participating IGLP lenders how they thought the public viewed the loan program and why they participated in it.

Of the 547 lenders who responded, 88 percent said the public viewed the program positively. Most lenders said the loans provide an educational opportunity, provide the best self-help source for educational funding and are relatively inexpensive and easy to obtain.

Amtrak in 1970. The policy provides that employees will be paid a portion of their former salaries for up to six years after their jobs have been eliminated.

Amtrak has questioned the benefit of the policy in a public statement on the President's proposal because "we'd be paying people not to do their jobs," Marciniak said.

"We would end up paying more in the first year than it would cost to operate Amtrak," she claimed.

Workshops deal with student stress

By Clotilda Figliulo
Student Writer

With the seventh week of the semester quickly approaching, many students may find themselves overworked, overtired and, as a result, filled with stress.

That is where the Wellness Center comes in. Its stress management workshops are geared toward avoiding, and dealing with, stressful situations.

The stress workshops are presented several times each semester. They are conducted by Barb Fijolek, a Wellness Center counselor, and Tom Kalish, a graduate student in health education.

Kalish calls SIU's health program "one of the most progressive in the country, because its prevention-oriented."

Kalish also teaches fitness and weight control workshops as part of his internship at the Wellness Center.

Fijolek has been counseling at the center for four years. She received her master's degree in mental health from SIU-C.

Fijolek offers three ways to deal with stress. The first is to change or avoid stressful situations. Included in this area is developing the ability to schedule time more efficiently.

Fijolek recommends that people ask themselves, "Do I have to do this now?" so that they can set priorities.

The second method is to change attitudes. Fijolek said this means to change circumstances that can be changed and to adapt to what cannot be changed.

The third method of dealing with stress is to build up a resistance to it, through a healthy diet, exercise and relaxation techniques.

TO BEGIN building up a resistance to stress, Fijolek recommends writing down reactions to stressful situations.

"Some people smoke, some people sleep or drink alcohol. All too common though, is ignoring your stress and suppressing it, which can lead to illness. Recording your reactions can help you to break unhealthy habits," Fijolek said.

Fijolek says that people should not ignore symptoms of stress.

"Fifty to 80 percent of illnesses are stress related. Stress affects our immunities and susceptibility to disease," she said.

Stress symptoms include backache, indigestion, insomnia, alcohol and drug abuse, depression and even heart disease.

"THERE IS a close relationship between mind and body," Fijolek said.

Relaxation techniques can help reduce stress. Through deep breathing, one of the relaxation techniques, "People can learn to lower their blood pressure and become aware of muscle tension in their bodies," Kalish said.

He suggests that deep breathing exercises be done on a daily basis to "let go of tension."

Kalish also recommends that people ask themselves, "Am I taking care of myself to the best of my abilities?"

He describes the extra weight of stress as carrying around a chair all day. "If you don't want to carry around a chair, you've got to exercise. Treat yourself to a nice walk. It's the best relaxing exercise," he said.

OTHER RELAXATION techniques taught at the workshops include stretching, meditation and biofeedback, which is machine-assisted meditation.

"The machine lets you know when you're tensing up," Fijolek said.

Students who recognize stress symptoms in themselves can go to the Wellness Center for assistance or attend the next workshop.

Needy get free furs from store

CHICAGO (AP) — When the spirit of giving hit Mel Walowitz, he came up with a novel charity idea: furs for the poor.

The furrier, in celebration of his business' 70th anniversary this year, opened his salon Wednesday and gave away fur coats to 30 needy elderly women.

"The business has been good to us and we wanted to give something back to the people," said Robert Walowitz, the furrier's son and president of Mysels Furs.

The women chose from mink, fox, lynx, muskrat and raccoon coats — all of them reconditioned and in good shape. Most preferred the touch of mink.

The total value of the 30 used coats is estimated to be between $25,000 and $35,000, Robert Walowitz said.

UN club plans general assembly simulation

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

Apartheid. East-West relations. Space weapons. Third world economic development.

The United Nations, an international organization of countries working together for peace and economic prosperity, routinely tackles these issues and so can SIU-C students during the United Nations simulation.

The simulation is sponsored by the United Nations Simulation Association. It is meant to be as close to a General Assembly meeting of the real United Nations as possible with participants acting as ambassadors from various countries, said an officer from the student club.

Part of the reason for the simulation is to educate people on how the United Nations works, he said. "It's meant to be like a typical day at the U.N.," said John D. Rutledge, senior in political science and economics.

Students participating in the simulation will be able to represent a country of their choice and decide on a resolution to the most pressing problem facing that country, Rutledge said.

Students from all majors are welcome to participate in the simulation, said club officer Roger W. Provart, a senior in history and political science. A table will be set in the Student Center until the first week in April for registration.

In order to educate participants and introduce them to current international issues, a series of lecture seminars will be offered by the club. The seminars will be open to the public, Rutledge said.

Two of the seminars are slated for Feb. 21 and 28 at 7 p.m. in Tech A-111. Ikua Chou, political science professor is the "resident expert on communist political systems," Rutledge said, saying that Chou will talk on east-west relations.

The topic of the Feb. 28 seminar will be space weapons and nuclear disarmament.

A third seminar is planned for March 21. Manfred Landecker, professor in political science, will speak on international economic development and foreign policy, Rutledge said.

A problem with past simulations was that participants did not know enough about the details surrounding a particular issue, Provart said.

An outsider watching the simulation could truly understand how a particular country feels about an issue, if the ambassadors have done their homework prior to the event, he said.

The club has also sent away for information from the U.N.

embassies located within every country represented in the United Nations organization, Rutledge said.

The simulation will take place the first weekend in April. The club is looking for more participants to represent countries, Rutledge said.

There are 160 countries in the real United Nations.

When people become ambassadors for a particular country, they also join one of four committees. These are the special political committee, legal committee, economic social committee, and the political-security committee, Rutledge said.

SUMMER JOBS!!! THE new year is rolling. How about your? Have you considered what kind of a summer job you are going to get? Why line up for minimum wage stuff like washing dishes or flipping hamburgers when the Illinois Army National Guard has a better alternative? How would you like a summer job for 2 months this summer which will pay for your room, board, and medical expenses and guarantee you at least $1000.00 to use for the next school term? How about a guaranteed college scholarship for tuition. Free? Would you like to have $75.00 per month every month for the next school term just for working one weekend a month? Would you like to be considered for a $2000 bonus? The Illinois Army National Guard needs people who can qualify to serve their state and nation and help themselves as well. If you think we have what you are looking for, don't pound pavement this summer for nothing jobs. Step out for adventure and great benefits! Call Dave Ambler in Carbondale at 457-0552.

Dozen College Bowl teams to compete in regional play

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

The "varsity sport of the mind" will be played this weekend and SIU-C will be one of 12 teams in the Region 9 competition at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

Also known as the College Bowl, this sport of question-and-answer is based on academic knowledge, with topics ranging from biology and literature to current events.

Representing SIU-C this year are: Pat Hewson, graduate student in law; Tom Moran, senior in biological sciences; Brian Stevenson, senior in finance; Paul Webb, Jr., graduate student in anthropology; and Rick Luczak, senior in philosophy.

The College Bowl is sponsored by the College Bowl Corp. and the American College Unions International, said Keith W. Kurz, coordinator for the Region 9 competition.

Originated by Don Reid, the game was aired as a television program during the 1950s and 1960s. The game is divided into two eight-minute halves, with toss-up and bonus questions and a point system for correct answers.

Winning teams of the College Bowl go on to national competition. Prizes are awarded according to team standings.

"Based on where they place, scholastic awards ranging from $500 to $5,000 and $10,000 are made in the name of the institution," Kurz said.

Luczak said team members were chosen from about 90 participants. A campus tournament was held last

COBA seminars to teach business computer uses

The College of Business and Administration is offering a series of one-day seminars on personal computers in business.

"Introduction to Personal Computers for Business" will meet Saturday, March 9 and Tuesday, March 12.

"Introduction to LOTUS I, II, and III," will meet Wednesday, March 13 and Saturday, March 16.

"Introduction to the DBASE II and III" will meet Thursday, March 14 and Saturday, March 30.

Cost per session is $95. All sessions will meet in the COBA computer laboratories. Saturday sessions will meet from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Weekday seminars will meet from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Classes will have a one-hour lunch break.

Instructors will be Lynn Anderson and William Thornburg of Meta Management in Carbondale.

To register or for more information, call Frederick H. Maidment, 453-3328.

semester, with the first- and second-place teams receiving $500 and $400 respectively. The team of five was then chosen to represent SIU-C at the regional competition.

Last year's team placed fourth, Moran, the team's only returning player, said. The team "looks good, but it's hard to say," he said.

Other teams get to practice before the games, but "SIU-C doesn't promote the College Bowl too much and SPC isn't too involved" in preparing a team for competition, he said.

Individual members of the team are well-read in their specific areas of study and reading various anthologies is the only preparation the team does, Luczak said.

The ACUI is divided into 15 regions nationwide, Kurz said, and each region will have games this weekend. Last year the national tournament was held at Ohio State University. The site for this year's competition has not yet been chosen.

Region 9 consists of schools in Indiana and Illinois, except for Chicago, which is in Region 10. SIU-C will compete with teams representing Western Illinois, Northern Illinois, Notre Dame, Ball State, Indiana, St. Mary's, Butler, Earlham, Illinois Wesleyan, Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology and the host, Purdue.

Computer skill competition to be featured at farm show

By Rodney Sanford
Staff Writer

The 10 to 15 Southern Illinois high schools that will compete at Rend Lake College March 6 won't be dribbling a ball before screaming fans.

They'll be tested on their "program-ability" in the agricultural computer skills contest designed by the faculty and graduate students in the SIU-C School of Agriculture.

The contest will be conducted during the Southern Illinois Farm Materials Handling Show March 5-7. The show will display 100 samples of the newest farm equipment, including computers and electronic monitoring systems and devices.

The show is sponsored by SIU-C, RLC and area farm electricity cooperatives.

Kevin Tatham, contest coordinator and graduate student in agriculture education, said the students will be tested on computer terminology, computer program practices and computer data entry.

There will be three students

Briefing seminar to feature ways of ending hunger

Assumptions that have distorted the way some people view world hunger will be discussed and clarified during the second half of the "Ending Hunger Briefing" Friday.

The seminar, sponsored by the Geography Department, will begin at 2 p.m. in Faner 2533.

Colin Prowse, geography faculty member and coordinator of the seminar, said that the program's aim is to make people aware of what hunger is in the world today and to make individuals aware of what they can do to end it.

Among the concerns to be looked at are whether there is enough food in the world to feed everyone and, if there is, whether the world can afford to distribute the food to the needy. Sensible ways that people can help end the problem will also be brought to light, Prowse said.

Man charged with bad check writing

Alan Wilson, 40, of Mount Vernon, was arrested by Carbondale police Wednesday and charged with deceptive practices.

Wilson allegedly cashed two bad checks, one in the amount of $600 and the other for $750, at the First National Bank of Carbondale, a representative of the police department said.

At the time of his arrest, Wilson was also on parole in Jefferson County, but police did not say for what.

to a team, but Tatham said there will also be an individual category. Participating schools received sample tests when they registered for the contest.

Students' knowledge of computer terms will be tested through multiple-choice questions. Contestants will also enter data on computer spreadsheets, an electronic form of an accounting ledger. Students' computer programming skills will be tested when they're called upon to fix a program containing errors.

To round out the competition, students will insert one of 20 formulas used in farming in a program.

The tests will be graded by the SIU-C Collegiate Future Farmers of America and the RLC Agriculture Club. The top 10 individuals and top three schools will receive ribbons.

Women gymnasts ready for Illinois Classic

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's gymnastics team has been plagued with a recent barrage of injuries, yet Coach Herb Vogel says his squad is going into Saturday's Illinois Classic with the attitude that it can come out on top.

"We can win regardless of the injuries. We are as physically and mentally ready as possible under the circumstances," Vogel said.

The Salukis, 1-2, will be without Joanne Oppenheim and Diana Cook, and Michelle Spillman and Gretchen Koepp-

Baker may not be at full strength for the four-team invitational at Champaign.

Oppenheim, a senior and the Salukis' uneven bar specialist, suffered a broken foot in SIU-C's last outing against Indiana State and will be out for the season. Cook, a promising freshman, is suffering from back injuries and will also miss the remainder of the season.

Spillman was the Salukis' top all-arounder last year as a freshman, but this season she has been bothered by illnesses that have affected her stamina. Vogel plans to use Spillman in only two events and is counting on Koepp-Baker to be fully recovered from the flu, which caused her to miss several practices the past week and a half.

"We hope to use Michelle on the vault and the bars. She can get by on those events with gut strength alone. I'm also counting on Gretchen. She's shown a great confidence growth," Vogel said.

Junior Maggi Nidiffer will replace Oppenheim on the bars and compete as an allarounder for the first time since early in her freshman year. Gina Hey, Jennifer Moore and Lori Steele will also compete as all-arounders for Vogel.

"It will be a challenge for Maggi. She hasn't competed on the bars in quite a while and it will depend on her concentration. She's a capable all-arounder, but injuries have kept her from working it in some time," Vogel said.

Hey was SIU-C's top all-arounder in a loss to Indiana State, scoring 35.55 points, while Steele added a 34.65. Moore led the Salukis over Northern Illinois the previous week by scoring a 35.85, just edging teammates Hey (35.85) and Spillman (35.80).

The Salukis, who are the top seed, are averaging 175.20 as a team, and have been strongest in the floor exercise and vaulting. The University of Illinois-Champaign is also averaging 175.20, with the other two teams, Illinois State and the University of Illinois-Chicago scoring in the low 170s according to Vogel.

Margaret Callcott, one of SIU-C's top uneven bar competitors, and freshman Nancy Sanchez will play key roles for the Salukis on Saturday. Callcott won the bars competition against NTU, scoring a 9.05.

Einhorn won't get USFL TV pact

CHICAGO (AP) — Sports entrepreneur Eddie Einhorn, frustrated in his efforts to land a United States Football League television contract with the networks, said Thursday he is trying to focus attention on the problem by resigning as chief negotiator.

Einhorn, an owner of the Chicago White Sox and the dormant Chicago USFL franchise, said the rival National Football League should not have all three networks locked up in its television package.

"We're asking for a competitive chance," he said. "The NFL should be forced to return to two or even one network. If not, they should take us and let us all in on the monopoly."

Einhorn sent a letter to USFL Commissioner Harry Usher asking to be relieved of his duties as the league's television negotiator because he could make no headway with the networks.

"I don't want to make the networks look bad," he said, noting that CBS, ABC and NBC are all tied up by the NFL.

"They made a deal with the NFL for $500 million and they're stuck with the numbers," Einhorn said. "I don't think they will voluntarily make a decision. They have to be told to do something. The NFL has to offer a package to two networks or even one. If not, then the courts or the government has to tell them."

The USFL has an antitrust suit pending against the NFL.

Navratilova advances to Lipton finals

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova solved her own balky forehand and Carling Bassett's hard groundstrokes Thursday, defeating the young Canadian 6-3, 6-3 to move into the women's final of the $1.8 million Lipton International Players Championships.

Navratilova, who has lost twice in her past three tennis tournaments, will face the winner of Thursday night's other semifinal between No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd and West Germany's Steffi Graf.

Saturday's women's final, to be televised nationally on ABC, is worth $112,500 to the winner.

The men's semifinals will be staged on the hardcourts at Laver's International Tennis Resort Friday, with No. 13 Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia, the only seed left in the 128-player men's draw, facing Scott Davis, and Tim Mayotte playing Jan Gunnarsson of Sweden. The men's final, also to be televised and worth $112,500 to the winner, will be held Sunday.

Facing Bassett, a 17-year-old right-hander from Toronto, for the fifth time in their careers and the third time this year, Navratilova came up with two tremendous volleys.

Women's track team ready for Illini Invitational meet

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's track and field team will compete in an 18-team meet in Champaign at the Illinois Invitational Saturday in its fourth and final indoor meet before the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference meet.

Louisiana State University, the University of Illinois, Nebraska, Michigan, Michigan State University and Minnesota will be major competitors, Saluki coach Don DeNoon said.

"I'd like to finish third or fourth overall, but it's going to be difficult to do that," he said. Sprinter Denise Blackman and thrower Rhonda McCausland are "two potential placers," DeNoon said.

"The meet director at Illinois indicated Denise was seeded number one for the 440," he said.

Blackman has set school records the past two meets, running the 440-yard dash in 57:08 seconds at the Purdue Invitational and 57:07 at the Eastern Illinois Invitational.

McCausland holds the school record for the shot put at 50 feet, eight inches. DeNoon believes she can break that record because of the high-level competition this weekend. Last week at the Eastern Invitational, her best throw was 48 feet, nine inches.

"We'll just go in there and compete and the records will come," he said.

The Salukis will be without long distance runners Sally Zack and Chris Hangren, and high jumpers Sue Anderson and Sharon Leidy, who will be competing in a pentathlon at Illinois State University. Fifteen teams will be represented at the pentathlon. The pentathlon events will include the hurdles, the high jump, the long jump, the 880-yard run and the 5,000-yard run.

DeNoon said without Zack, he cannot expect any points from the distance squad.

Darla Patterson will compete in the high jump, the 660-yard dash and run the mile relay with Karen Cooper, Kathy Raske, and Blackman. DeNoon expects her to show improvement in the 660-yard dash.

Cooper will be competing in the 60-yard hurdles this weekend, for her first time this year.

"A lot of athletes will be going after national qualifying standards this weekend," DeNoon said. Blackman and McCausland are hopefuls. McCausland needs to reach 49-5 in the shot put and Blackman needs to run the 440-yard dash in 55:20.

The GCAC meet will be held March 1-2 at Normal.

Intramural sports set for first one-on-one basketball tourney

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The first one-on-one basketball tournament sponsored by the SIU-C intramural sports program will have 50 people participating in three divisions Saturday afternoon.

The tournament will begin at 12 p.m. at both Davies Gymnasium and the Recreation Center, with the final rounds taking place at the Recreation Center. Basketballs and t-shirts will be awarded to the top two finishers in each of the divisions: men's 6-foot and under, men's open and women's open.

The intramural office has announced the top basketball teams in its second weekly IM Poll. Officials and supervisors rate the top teams in each league, taking into account records, opponents and margin of victory.

The top four teams in the men's division A 6-foot and under league are F-Troop, Yardsmen, Frustration and the Sixshooters. Eight teams, the Phisigmakaps, Netters, Hot Fingers, Utopia, 33-E-Co., Runnin' Rebs, The Marxist and the Wizards are on top in the men's division B 6-foot and under league, with identical 3-0 records.

In the men's A regular class, Blue Moon, 3-0, is No. 1, with GDR, Spinnin'pups, Cosmic Dust and The Law filling out the top five. The DU's are on top of the men's B regular class with a 3-0 mark, followed by the Sand Crabs, Membersonly, Silulas, Knights, Longshots, Stoooges, Easter Pigs, Hoopsquad and Gustos.

The Dudes (3-0), Sixshooters (2-1) and the Z-Team (2-2) are leading the way in the women's A league, while Future Dunk, the Floggers and Last Chance, all 3-0, are on top in the women's B league.

Floor Play, 2-0, is No. 1 in co-rec A division, followed by the RedRiders, Wrecking Cr., Gunners and the Loose Shoes. The Hoopsters are the top-rated team in the co-rec B division with 7MixedNuts, Borah's Core, Cadavaiers and Kari's Team making out the rest of the top five.

The Slammers lead the men's C division with a 4-0 record, with Abbott (3-0) ranked second. The Zoo, Skywalkers and the Eagles are also rated in the top five in the men's C class.

Men gymnasts to face Illini

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The hot SIU-C men's gymnastics team will host intrastate rival Illinois in a dual meet Sunday at the Arena at 2 p.m.

The Salukis, 4-2, have won three straight meets and scored a school record 279.95 points last weekend in a victory over Big Ten foe Iowa. Their average team score of 275.17 ranks among the top eight in the country.

"We'd really like to beat Illinois and prove that we're the best team in the state. But they are a good team and we have to do our stuff to handle them," SIU-C Coach Bill Meade said.

Illinois finished ninth at last year's nationals and is currently ranked 12th in the country after scoring a season-high of 275.50 in a loss to the University of New Mexico. The Salukis defeated the Illini last year in Champaign 275.45 to 273.65.

SIU-C has been led in scoring by all-arounders Brendan Price and Gregg Upperman, but their recent success has been a team effort. Senior Lawrence Williamson has been strong in two events and some freshman and sophomore gymnasts have contributed for the Salukis.

Williamson, who competes in the floor exercise and the vault, has five first place finishes and two second place finishes in the floor exercise in SIU-C's seven meets. He is leading the Midwest region with an average of 9.67 on the floor and has an average of 9.26 on the vault.

David Bailey, a sophomore, and Ken Clark, a freshman, have scored well on three or four events for Meade all season long. Bailey is averaging 9.32 on the vault, 9.06 on the parallel bars, and has improved rapidly on the pommel horse. Clark, the Salukis' leadoff man on the horizontal bar, leads the team with an average of 9.42 in the event.

"I'm really pleased with Kenny Clark. He's been doing a great job of leading on the high bar, and he's getting better on the rings and the parallel bars," Meade said.

Freshman Phil Armand has provided some help on the pommel horse, and sophomore Preston Knauf has worked well on five events, averaging 9.33 on the vault and 9.21 on the horizontal bar.

Men swimmers to battle Indiana

By Tony Paige
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's swimming team will duel at Indiana University Friday in the last dual meet for both schools before conference competition.

Indiana is very tough, swim coach Doug Ingram said. The Hoosiers are ranked 15th nationally with an 8-2 record but SIU-C (7-2) ranks 12th.

Indiana has beaten Alabama—who defeated the Salukis earlier this season—has won the Big Ten Conference swimming title the past two years, and are strong in diving, the breaststroke, backstroke and sprint freestyle events.

Indiana is led by Olympic swim coach Doc Counsilman, who trained 1972 Olympic seven event gold medalist Mark Spitz and 1976 four event gold medalist Jim Montgomery. "He is a renowned researcher and an esteemed and respected figure in our sport," Ingram said.

"Our advantage should come in the distance freestyle events, the butterfly and the individual medley. Both teams match up pretty well in the relay events. We just need to hold our own."

SIU-C's strong points include NCAA championship qualifiers Gary Brinkman, Erwin Kratz, Anders Grillhammar, diver Chad Lucero and 1984 Olympians Giovanni Frigo, Hans Kroes and diver Nigel Stanton. This will be Stanton's first competition representing SIU-C since NCAA restrictions withdrew his eligibility to compete two years ago.

Drake: Cagers want revenge

10. Either Demetrius Henderson (13.0 points per game, 7.2 rebounds) or Damon Jones (2.9 points per game) will start at the other forward slot for Drake. Jones started in front of Henderson Wednesday in Drake's 71-55 loss to Bradley at Peoria.

The Bulldog's top reserves are guard Dave Zingg (2.6 points per game) and center Mike Core (2.3). Drake is down to only nine players after Grillhammar was also an Olympian in Los Angeles.

The team is feeling good, Ingram said, but have some points against them. They are finishing a strenuous schedule which includes last weekend's marathon Saluki Invitational, the dual competition against Big Ten Iowa, and heavy training.

An added problem this week is that a few swimmers have colds, but Ingram said it is not serious, although they "can't be overlooked or ignored. A respiratory infection hampers and can be aggravated by the training. It takes longer to shake an infection by training through it but at this point in the season you cannot afford time off to recover."

The team is mentally prepared for the meet, Ingram said.

"This is an emotional challenge for them to get psyched and ready. We would like to use this weekend as a good springboard for the conference meet and come away with a win, but Indiana will be doing their best to prevent that. This is their final home dual of the season and they're always strong."

SIU-C beat Indiana for the first time in a controversial first in 1980. There is a good rivalry between the two, Ingram said.

"It should be tight. We're working our tapering process, so are they. We just have a little tuning up to do, a little technique work like pacing and speedwork or streamlining off the walls. Now is when we turn from being scientists into artists and put the final touches on a six-month process," Ingram said.

Football team signs four more prep players

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

Coach Ray Dorr and the football Salukis continued to pursue high school football recruits late Wednesday night and Thursday, signing four more players to bolster an already strong recruiting class.

Nineteen players signed letters of intent with the Salukis, including 15 prep players, on Wednesday. Two of those players, running back Anthony Vaughn of Kirkwood, Mo., and Ron Kirk of St. Louis, signed late Wednesday night.

On Thursday, SIU-C signed linebacker Travis Smith of Chicago Fenger High School and center Bob Grammer of Mahomet-Seymour High School.

"We were very fortunate," Dorr said Thursday. "We went in with a list of eight players who we didn't know about for sure. Of those, five signed. We had great success. We signed almost everyone we wanted to sign."

Dorr said he was so impressed with Smith that he arrived at his home at 7 a.m. Wednesday to sign him. But Smith wasn't at home and he wasn't at school. He had decided to take a last-minute visit to Western Michigan, but he ultimately signed with SIU-C. Smith had also considered Wichita State and Missouri.

"It took until about 7 p.m. that night but we got everything straightened out," Dorr said.

Smith, a 6-foot-5, 185-pound athlete, played safety and wide receiver in high school, but Dorr would like to switch him to linebacker. Dorr said Smith would have to gain about 25 pounds to play outside linebacker at SIU-C.

Grammer was a two-way lineman in high school, but he is projected to be a center in college. The 6-foot-3, 230-pound Grammer chose SIU-C over Eastern Illinois, Indiana State and Illinois State.

Dorr said he still wants to sign one other prep player — running back Elgin Rucker of Memphis. Rucker has narrowed his choices down to Tennessee Tech and SIU-C, but has not made a decision between the two schools.

Dorr had tremendous success in luring players away from larger schools such as Missouri.

Men cagers defeat ISU

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

The victory wasn't pretty, but the SIU-C men's basketball team notched a 74-63 win over Indiana State Thursday night before a sparse crowd of 2,370 at the Arena.

Kenny Perry paced the Salukis with 19 points, including 15 in the second half. Nate Bufford added 16 points and Bernard Campbell 14 for the Salukis, who improved to 3-9 in the Missouri Valley Conference and 11-12 overall.

The lead changed hands 10 times before Perry scored from the inside on an assist by Bufford to give the Salukis the lead for good at 62-61 with 3:33 remaining in the game. SIU-C used four points each by Perry and Campbell to outscore the Sycamores 12-2 down the stretch.

SIU-C received a strong performance off its bench, which outscored the Sycamore reserves 17-2. Tony Snooks and Steve Middleton were each 3-of-3 from the field and scored seven and six points, respectively.

Indiana State was paced by guard John Sherman Williams, who scored 20 points and had two alley-oop slam dunks. Forward Johnny Edwards added 19 points for the Sycamores, who slipped to 4-8 in the MVC and 11-10 overall.

Nate Bufford battled Indiana State's Lee Moore and Jeff McComb (34) for a rebound during Thursday's game.

Men cagers want revenge with Drake

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

SIU-C coach Allen Van Winkle will probably not forget the Salukis' 68-63 defeat at Drake last month for two reasons.

The loss dropped the Salukis to eighth place in the Missouri Valley Conference standings, a position they still occupy going into Thursday's game with Indiana State.

Van Winkle received three consecutive technicals in that game and was later ejected by referee Ralph Pickett.

Upset with the MVC's officiating, Van Winkle sent tapes of the Purdue, Tulsa, Illinois State and Drake games to Johnny Overby, the league's supervisor of officials.

While Van Winkle hasn't received a response from Overby, he hopes the Salukis can avenge the loss on Saturday at the Arena. Tip-off is 2:35 p.m.

Van Winkle indicated that the Salukis have to contain Drake center Melvin Mathis and forward Daryl Lloyd, who combined for 44 points and 22 rebounds against the Salukis in the earlier meeting.

"Mathis had a great game against us, and Lloyd played a great role in that game with (Kenny) Perry and (Cleveland) Bibbens both fouling out," Van Winkle said. "I think the major part of how we do against them is how Mathis and Lloyd play," he said.

Mathis, a 6-foot-7, 230-pound junior center, is averaging 15.6 points per game and a team-high 8.0 rebounds. He scored a season-high 28 points and had 11 rebounds against the Salukis last month and is shooting a team-leading 52.3 percent from the field.

Lloyd, a 6-foot-7, 210-pound senior forward, is averaging a team-high 18.1 points and 7.8 rebounds.

The backcourt will consist of 6-foot guards Stephon Butler and Glenn Martin.

Butler has recovered from a knee injury that he sustained in the first game of the 1983-84 season, which forced him to sit out the remainder of the year as a redshirt. He is averaging 4.0 points, but leads the team with 134 assists and 28 steals.

Martin, a freshman from Carbondale High School, is averaging 5.4 points and leads the team in blocked shots with

Cage women want to avoid letdown against Panthers

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's basketball team will face Northern Iowa University in Cedar Falls, Iowa Saturday night continuing it's Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference road trip.

The Panthers came to SIU-C in January from an upset over Drake and followed with a near upset over the Salukis. Both teams now feel they have something to prove.

"We're going there with the idea to show them that we're a better ballclub than we showed them here in Carbondale," Saluki Coach Cindy Scott said.

Panther Coach Kim Mayden said, "I think we have something to prove. We're mentally prepared and we have a little revenge motive. We should've won when we were down there—we outplayed them."

The Salukis' 53-51 victory came on a final minute jump shot from Petra Jackson. Panther Diane Roberts had a chance to tie the game in the closing seconds, but the shot was one of the few she missed in her 30 point performance.

"We've got to stop Roberts. She's a great player and we did a poor job defensively against her," Scott said.

Mayden said Roberts is not the type of ballplayer to hold a grudge about the miss and is a fine team player.

"As a team, we felt it shouldn't have gotten to that point. Our whole team is out to prove we can win and they're out to play the best they can. We'll have to have a total team effort to beat Southern," Mayden said.

Scott said the Salukis will play their usual game, but they must play better than they did in the previous contest.

"I have a lot of respect for Coach Scott and her program. I'm sure she'll remind them. I'm not naive enough to think they'll come in here not ready. They'll have to play better and I'm expecting them to," Mayden said.

The intense competition of Thursday's game against Drake might be a factor for the Saluki attitude Saturday but Scott said she has confidence in her team to be emotionally prepared.

"I think our kids are smart enough to know that if we beat Drake we're in a fight for first and if we lose we're in a fight for second. Either way it's going to be an important ballgame for us," Scott said.

Despite the upset of Drake, NIU holds a 1-9 GCAC record, pending the outcome of a GCAC match with Eastern Illinois Thursday night.

Drake defeats women cagers

Drake defeated the SIU-C women's basketball team 75-69 in a Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference game on Thursday at the Drake Fieldhouse although the Salukis led for 34 minutes of the game.

It was almost an instant replay of the team's first meeting. Drake opened with four points in the opening minutes but then SIU-C pounded the boards and fought to eight-point leads twice in the first half. The Salukis shot 59 percent from the field in the first 20 minutes.

Petra Jackson hit 7-of-10 field goal attempts and Ann Kattreh connected on 4-of-7 field goal attempts to give the Salukis a 37-34 lead at the half.

SIU-C started quickly in the second half to increase its lead to 57-48 at the 10:33 mark. It was the Salukis second nine-point lead of the half.

But Tina Dock ignited a Drake rally with two steals.

"Dock was the difference in the game by no stretch of the imagination," Drake coach Carole Baumgarten said.

The shooting of Wanda Ford keyed the Drake (17-3, 10-1) win. Ford finished with a game-high 32 points. Julie Fitzpatrick added 23 points for the Bulldogs.

Jackson led the Salukis (9-3, 15-6) with 23 points and Kattreh added 18 points. Jenkins finished with 12
